TO THE PUBLIC.

JAMES ASPERNE, having purchased the entire property of the EUROPEAN MAGAZINE, begs leave to assure its readers in particular, and the public in general, that no efforts shall be wanting on his part, to render it deserving, not only of retaining its present honourable station in the public favour, but of a still more extended circulation. This, he is aware, cannot be effected by any sudden or serious Innovation on the PLAN upon which it has so long been conducted with general approbation; he shall, however, consider it incumbent upon him to attempt to add to the variety, as well as utility, of its general contents: and to aid him in this endeavour, he earnestly solicits the communications of ingenious persons in every department of literature, science, and art, to which the most respectful attention shall be paid.

The Editors of the European Magazine have, on a former occasion, pointed out the contributions which they would prefer, and think it not improper to repeat them. They are Essays, Moral and Literary, and such as illustrate dark Passages of History; biographical Anecdotes of Men of Eminence, either living or dead; Letters on Erudition and Criticiſm; original Letters of celebrated Perſons, and Accounts of new Inventions, or remarkable Characters. They therefore flatter themſelves, that ſuch as have any uſeful knowledge to communicate, or any hint that may improve the Mind, poliſh the Manners, refine the Taſte, or mend the Heart, will be as glad of ſuch an Opportunity of communicating, as the Editors of the European Magazine will be always ready to convey it to the public.

It is moſt earneſtly requeſted, that ſuch ladies and gentlemen as may have imperfect ſets of the European Magazine, will give orders to their reſpective booksellers to perfect them, as ſeveral of the Numbers and Volumes are become ſcarce, and complete ſets, of courſe, very valuable: nor can they ever be re-printed, on account of the heavy expenſe attending ſuch an undertaking.

 Letters for the EDITORS, addreſſed to 32, Cornhill, poſt paid, will be immediately forwarded.
